HER CRAZY LOVER'S BULLET.

Mrs. Knoble May Survive Robt. Kehr's
Shooting, but He Is Dead.

SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 13.—Mrs. Max Knoble, the pretty little widow who was shot by Robert Kehr last night, is alive to-day, but delirious, and will probably recover. She is in the Orange Hospital.

No attempt has been made to extract the bullet, which is lodged in the back of her neck, she is unable to speak an intelligible word.

The body of Kehr, who shot himself after his attack on Mrs. Knoble, will be sent to Newark this afternoon for burial.

The tragedy seems to have been caused by insane jealousy of Mrs. Knoble on the part of Kehr.

Mrs. Knoble was the widow of a man who for several years kept a small saloon in Canfield street, opposite the City Building. Since his death she has carried on the business till yesterday, when she sold the saloon. She is about thirty years old, very attractive, and has always borne an excellent reputation.

Kehr, a good-looking fellow, and became desperately enamored of Mrs. Knoble. He had been discharged from the employ of a Newark grocery firm because of his slighty actions. He has a wife and two children in Newark.

He became a frequent visitor to Mrs. Knoble's saloon, and it is said that to encourage his customs she had acquitted him with him. He often declared his intention of securing a divorce, and urged Mrs. Knoble in that event to marry him, but she refused.

Kehr then became very jealous of any one who even spoke to Mrs. Knoble, and caused so many distressing scenes that she decided to sell out.

Last evening, after she had completed the bargain for the sale of the saloon, Kehr entered about 9 o'clock, and after sitting down and smoking a cigarette, said to Mrs. Knoble, who was behind the bar, that he would like to speak to her in the back yard.

She agreed to go with him, and the two went out into the garden, where Kehr, holding a pistol in his hand, shot and killed her.

There was no doubt that Kehr was slightly insane, and that his mania took the form of jealousy.

The madman's bullet perforated Mrs. Knoble's right chest, and she died under the law, which diverted its course so that it passed through her neck, lodging near the spine.

STUCK BY A TRAIN.

Thomas Colucci Killed on the New Haven Railroad This Morning.

A man about twenty-five years of age was struck and instantly killed by a north-bound passenger train on the New Haven Railroad at One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street and Fourth avenue at 8.15 o'clock this morning.

The body was taken to the Thirty-third Precinct station-house. Funeral services on the dead will be held at the First Italian Catholic Church, Wagner Palace Car Company.
